Hidden in Plain Sight: The Due Process Alternative to Jury Selection

Wednesday, April 17, 2024

5:30 p.m. – 7:15 p.m. (Eastern time)

Rutgers Law School, 123 Washington Street, Newark, NJ and Zoom Webinar

In Batson v. Kentucky, the Supreme Court sought to both eliminate invidious discrimination in jury selection and to preserve counsel's use of peremptory challenges. In its attempt to accommodate these irreconcilable objectives, the Court accomplished neither of them. Thirty-six years later, it is widely recognized that the Batson approach simply does not work.

This program is about an alternative approach to jury selection proposed by former New Jersey Superior Court Judge Martin Cronin. Judge Cronin will explain this alternative approach, which is primarily based upon due process rather than equal protection; the rights of the prospective jurors rather than only those of the litigants; juror inclusion rather than exclusion; individual juror competency rather than group stereotyping; and the citizenship which unites us rather than any group classification which may divide us.

Then there will be a panel discussion moderated by the Honorable Joseph A. Greenaway and including Michael G. Donahue, III, Esq. and Yannick Wood, Esq. Each panelist authored comments addressing the jury selection process, including the continued viability of peremptory challenges, to the Judicial Conference on Jury Selection ("JCJS").
