This program is a fast paced, interactive program focusing on common ethical dilemmas that often arise in the corporate context and how high-level corporate managers and the attorneys representing corporations address them. The program provides a unique opportunity to not only address the legal and ethical terrain that relate to corporate decision-making, but also the differing vantage points, duties and roles of corporate officers and attorneys representing the corporation. Through a lively discussion of actual corporate challenges, the program will explore how corporate officers and attorneys respond, and ought to respond, to ethical and legal crises faced by the corporation. Among the topics to be discussed are:

- Internal investigations
- Corporate compliance best practices
- The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and ethical and legal issues confronting companies doing business internationally
- The dynamics of collaboration among corporate officers and attorneys in handling legal and ethical dilemmas
