

SUPREME COURT 2017: THREE CASES AND THEIR IMPACTS ON COMMUNITIES

Wednesday, October 11, 2017

4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Rutgers Law School

Center for Law and Justice | 123 Washington Street | Newark, NJ 07102

This program is part of Rutgers Law School's annual First Monday event, celebrating the start of the Supreme Court's Term. It will feature discussions of three cases before the Court: the travel ban in the context of rising Islamophobia (IRAP v. Trump), the criminal justice system's impact on immigrant communities (Sessions v. Dimaya), and excessive use of force by the police (Los Angeles v. Mendez).

During the second hour of the program, the speakers will join small group discussions with interested audience members to dig deeper into the cases and their impacts on communities.

First Monday is sponsored by the Constitutional Rights and International Human Rights Clinics, the Eric R. Neisser program, and the Kinoy-Stavis program at Rutgers Law School.

Speakers:

Sahar Aziz

Professor of Law and Chancellor's Social Justice Scholar, Rutgers Law School

Alexis Karteron

Assistant Professor of Law and Director of the Constitutional Rights Clinic, Rutgers Law School

Gwen Carr

Mother of Eric Garner

Jay Rehman

Director of the Council on American-Islamic Relations NJ and a community organizer from Make the Road NJ

Rosa Cohen-Cruz

Attorney, Immigration, The Bronx Defenders

Registration Fee: $50

CLE Credit Hours: NJ: 2.0 | NY: 2.0 | PA: 1.5

NJ CLE Information: This program has been approved by the Board on Continuing Legal Education of the Supreme Court of New Jersey for 2.0 hours of total CLE credit.

All are invited to attend the Eric R. Neisser Award ceremony and reception after the program.

Register at rutgerscle.com