Center for Law and Justice | 123 Washington Street | Newark, NJ 07102

Learn how an idea or invention moves through the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office to become a patent. Understanding the process will help you counsel clients who receive a cease and desist letter, inherit a patent, defend against a patent holder, or evaluate whether buying or licensing a patent is a good investment. The program will help you to:

- Define what a patent is and what materials are included in a patent
- Identify different types of patents and patent applications
- Describe the pathway from invention to a patent in both the United States and foreign countries
- Adhere to the statutory requirements for obtaining a patent in the U.S.
- Evaluate the relative strength of a patent
- Recognize the importance of non-disclosure agreements throughout the process
- Anticipate the pitfalls of working with invention companies
