PART THREE OF THREE – IN-PERSON

Thursday April 7, 2022 | 8:45 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. (Eastern Time)

The 2022 Symposium of the Rutgers University Law Review will explore the legislative history of the Twenty-Sixth Amendment, the appropriate standards of review that courts should use when reviewing challenges to youth voting restrictions, and a data-driven perspective on the youth vote and the specific voting mechanisms that empower the youth vote.

This is part three of a three-part series that will host scholars of law and legal ethics, election data science, social sciences, and the humanities; current and former lawmakers; legal practitioners; and current and former youth organizers to discuss election law reform.
